EDUCATION. PURIFICATION. PROPAGATION.

Following an Imam

If a traveller prays behind a resident imam during the prayer time:

- He follows the imam
- He performs the full four rak'ahs

If the traveller prays behind the resident imam after the Salaah time has ended:

- The Salaah will be invalid

Resident Following a Traveller

A resident can pray behind a traveller Imam

- When the traveller completes his prayer after two rak'ahs
- The resident stands and completes the remaining two rak'ahs himself

Resident Following a Traveller

If the traveller Imam incorrectly performs four rak'ahs and the resident follows him throughout:

- The resident's Fardh Salaah becomes invalid
- It counts only as a voluntary Salaah

Qada of Missed Prayers

The status of any Salaah is based on when it became Fardh

A four-rak'ah Salaah missed during travel:

- The Qadha will be two rak'ahs, even if Qadha is done when returning home

A four-rak'ah Salaah missed while resident:

- The Qadha will be four rak'ahs, even if the Qadha is done during travel

The ruling is based on the status at the end of the prayer time

Travel for Sinful Purposes

A traveller on:

- A permissible journey, and
- A journey involving disobedience,

are treated equally regarding travel concessions, including:

- Shortening the prayer (Qaşr)
- The option not to fast during Ramadan

The sinfulness of the journey does not remove the legal rulings of travel

Prayer of the Sick Person

If a Person Cannot Stand

A person can pray seated if standing is difficult or harmful due to:

- Severe pain
- Fear that the illness will worsen
- Fear that recovery will be delayed

Prayer of the Sick Person

If a person sits and prays

They will pray sitting while performing the normal bowing (ruku) and prostration (sujud)

They may sit in any comfortable manner

If they can stand for part of the Salaah, they must stand for as much as they are able

Prayer of the Sick Person

If a Person Cannot Bow or Prostrate

They should pray using head gestures

The gesture for sujūd (prostration) must be lower than the gesture for rukū (bowing)

The Salaah is not valid if the gesture for sujūd is the same as the gesture for rukū

Other Actions of Salaah

The sick person performs whatever he is able of:

- Qur'an recitation
- Tasbih
- Tashahhud
- Other adhkar of the prayer

If the person is unable to perform them, they are waived.

If Sitting Is Difficult

If sitting becomes difficult, they will pray:

1. Lying on their back (preferred)
2. On their side

Recommended Position

- Place a pillow or support under the head
- Face the Qiblah, not the sky
- Gesture with the head for ruku and sujud
- Keep the knees bent if possible, rather than stretching the legs toward the Qiblah

If Even Head Gestures Are Impossible

If the person cannot gesture with their head:

The Salaah is delayed, and

They do not gesture with:

- their eyes
- their eyebrows
- their heart

The obligation of ruku and sujud is not fulfilled by such actions

Making Up Missed Salaah

If the inability to pray lasts one day and night or less

If they recover, they must make up only those prayers

If they die in that state

No sin and no liability remain upon them

If the Inability Lasts More 5 Salaah

The obligation of making up those prayers is waived

This is to remove undue hardship from the sick person

Fidyah for Missed Prayers and Fasts

When No Fidyah Is Required

If a sick person dies before recovering sufficiently to make up missed prayers or fasts

If a traveller dies before returning and having the opportunity to make up missed fasts

Fidyah for Missed Prayers and Fasts

When Fidyah Is Required

If the sick person recovers, or the traveller returns and resides for at least fifteen days, yet dies before Qadha:

A bequest should be made for fidyah from up to one-third of the estate

Fidyah for Missed Prayers and Fasts

When Fidyah Is Required

- $\frac{1}{2}$ Sa (approx. 2.2 kg) of wheat
- 1 Sa (approx. 4.4 kg) of barley
- Their cash equivalent.
